Claim Objections

1. Claims 1, 10 and 11 are objected to because of the following informalities: the phrase "or the like" renders the claims indefinite because the claims include elements not actually disclosed (those encompassed by "or the like"), thereby rendering the scope of the claims unascertainable. Appropriate correction is required.
2. Similarly, claims 1 and 10 are objected to because of the following informalities: the phrase "of the type" renders the claims indefinite because the claims include elements not actually disclosed (those encompassed by "of the type"), thereby rendering the scope of the claims unascertainable. Appropriate correction is required.
3. Claim 8 is objected to because of the following informalities: there is lack of antecedent basis for "the handle portion". Appropriate correction is required.

DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

5. Claims 1-5, 7, 9-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Sueshige et al. 4,944,142.

Sueshige et al. discloses a lawnmower (10) wherein the method of use as per claim 11 is inherent, the lawnmower (10) comprising a cutting device (52) connected to a motor (22) for performing a cutting function, the lawnmower (10) being operated by an operating means (20), wherein the lawnmower (10) has:

a first unit (14) comprising a frame (70) for attaching the cutting device (52) to the motor (22) and having a body or protective cover (68) which at least partially surrounds the cutting device (52);

a second unit (12) having two rotatable wheels (unnumbered, shown in figures 1 and 2) for moving the lawnmower (10) relative to a base;

a wheel frame (16, 18) arranging the wheels and the operating means (20) which is a rod connected to the wheel frame (16, 18); and an insulator (78, see column 3, lines 58, 59) arranged to partially mutually connect the first (14) and second (12) units to reduce any vibrations between the units (14, 12).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. Claim 6 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Sueshige et al. in view of Driggers 4,825,548.

The device is disclosed as applied above. However, Sueshige et al. fails to disclose the operating means being divided into two pieces in its longitudinal direction which are connected at least partially by a damping element to reduce any vibrations from the second unit to the handle portion of the operating means.

Driggers discloses a similar lawn maintenance device wherein the operating means (30) is divided into two pieces (16, 36) in its longitudinal direction which are connected at least partially by a damping element (40) to reduce any vibrations from the second unit (16) to the handle portion (36) of the operating means (30).

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to include the handle damping element disclosed by Driggers on the device of Sueshige et al. in order to prevent numbing sensations to an operator during use.

8. Claim 8 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Sueshige et al. in view of Scanland 4,422,283, as cited by the applicant.

The device is disclosed as applied above. However, Sueshige et al. fails to disclose wherein the operating means is L-shaped with a first end having the handle portion and a second end to be connected to the wheels of the lawnmower.

Scanland discloses a similar lawn mower (10) including an L-shaped operating means (62) with a first end having a handle portion (at 62) and a second end (30, 31) to be connected to the wheels (54, 59, 68, 69) of the lawnmower (10).

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to include the L-shaped handle of Scanland on the mower of Sueshige et al. in order that forces developed in the handle while guiding the mower are transferred to the second ends and then directly to the wheels so that the housing is not stressed upon manipulation of the handle, thereby allowing the housing to be stamped from lighter weight sheet metal.

Conclusion

9. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
